

New Jersey Home Performance with ENERGY STAR®

Quality Control and Evaluation Agreement

Participating contractors in the New Jersey Home Performance with ENERGY STAR Program are independent home improvement contractors who are accredited and certified by the Building Performance Institute (BPI). The contractors who participate in the Program warranty their own work. Neither the NJ Board of Public Utilities Clean Energy Program nor its Program Managers or, Conservation Services Group (CSG), its program implementer, warrants the products or services of participating contractors.

The NJ Board of Public Utilities Clean Energy Program, through CSG, inspects a sample of program jobs to ensure quality, consistency and Program compliance (including adherence to BPI health and safety standards). In addition, the NJ Board of Public Utilities Clean Energy Program, or its designee, will evaluate a sample of homes to identify potential energy savings resulting from work performed through the Home Performance with ENERGY STAR Program.

I certify that I have read and understood the information on this form. I hereby agree to make my house available to CSG for a quality control inspection if requested and I authorize the energy suppliers named below to release information to the NJ Board of Public Utilities Clean Energy Program, or its designee, to evaluate my energy use in order to identify potential and actual energy savings.
